Markham Starr : End of the Line: Closing the Last Sardine Cannery in America (The Driftless Connecticut Series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised End of the Line: Closing the Last Sardine Cannery in America (The Driftless Connecticut Series):

Striking photographs of the final days of the Stinson Seafood sardine cannery in Maine

“Markham Starr’s photographs exemplify the best of social documentary defined by Andreacut; Kertesz and Walker Evans. They celebrate the rich tapestry of flesh and steel that once defined Americarsquo;s muscular industrial fishing culture and that lives on now in his vibrant monochromes.” (Bill Kuykendall, University of Maine)“These fine photographs catch the character of the remarkable people who earned their living with hard work and pride. I am really pleased that this book makes their story available.” (Ben Fuller, Penobscot Marine Museum)About the AuthorMARKHAM STARR is photographer and the author of Building the Greenland Kayak. His photographs of Rhode Island trap fishing appeared in a recent issue of Yankee Magazine. He lives in North Stonington, Connecticut.
